Egyptian high school students participate in World Affairs Council competition

WASHINGTON, DC, April 29, 2015: Four students from Hayah International Academy in Cairo, Egypt, competed in the 2015 National Academic WorldQuest contest in Washington, DC.

For the past five years, the World Affairs Council –Washington, DC has sponsored a Hayah Academy team’s participation in the competition and weeklong visit to Washington, DC learning about American society. This year, the group toured the Capitol building, explore the monuments, and attended a baseball game at Nationals Park.

“I am thrilled that students from the Hayah Academy in Cairo participated in the World Quest Competition,” said H.E. Mohamed Tawfik, Ambassador of Egypt to the United States. “I, along with everyone at the Egyptian Embassy, wholeheartedly welcome these competitors and congratulate them on their efforts. I also commend the excellent work of the World Affairs Council – Washington, DC, who are brilliantly fulfilling their role in achieving greater understanding between peoples and cultures.”

National Academic WorldQuest is organized by the World Affairs Councils of America in partnership with its local affiliates.

The World Affairs Council – Washington, DC is ‘A Leading Forum for Global Education and International Affairs’ and an institution ‘Where Learning Happens’. The Council is a non-profit, non-partisan organization dedicated to expanding awareness among the American public and the international community, of geopolitical, business, environmental and civil society issues, in our inter-connected world.
